“ Hey dad!!! Your birthday is tomorrow!!! How are we going to celebrate?? Beach day!? U know I took it off so I could spend time with you. I miss you so much. I don't know how many days have passed because to me it feels just like yesterday. I might try a voodoo ranger and see what you thought was so good about them. As always I can't wait to be with you again. Happy birthday dad I love you so much!!! Wish you were here! I could really use a story that you swear you never told me before even though I remember them all word for word. You were such a great parent!!! Keep looking over me and your other 2 sons!!! ☐☐👮👮☐ hey just thought I'd say to confirm I wasn't a robot it had me pick pictures with motorcycles. How ironic! I love you!!!

“ I love you dad and I'm so sorry I didn't get to say bye and I love you before the Lord took you but I will see you soon. I know your wings are spread wide open on your Harley and cooking out listen to some stairway to heaven. I love you so much I miss you more than anyone would know. I am so thankful your one and only biological son John Stanley is the man you raised him to be or I dont think I would have ever known when you truly passed away. If you see this John Stanley I want you to know I have always wanted to be closer to you but my family done your dad so wrong I didn't know how to come talk to you. The day you and dad dropped me off at to Fayetteville I knew my life was going to be messed up because dad cared how his kids grew up unlike my mom or so called sister. But I don't let that stop me from trying to make dad happy in heaven.

“ I appreciate the laughs, the stories and our conversations. Butch always was just the most "real" person. No faking it, just himself. Love ya, brother. You were and will always be one of the good ones.
