“ I am so sorry for your loss. Merideth was a fierce teacher and did many things to improve the lives of her students! I still do one of the lessons she created when I teach the 1970's. She was already missed here in NJ and I will continue to think of her fondly.

“ The struggle of life is real and it can test our limits mentally, physically, and emotionally. Everyday I fight off the demons and sometimes they won't flee. I can promise nothing in life for God holds the candle. All I can do is strive to be better everyday. One day at a time as AA beholds. Meredith was a beautiful person that was seduced by a different way of life. Alcohol produces a better feeling in some and it can even make them secure. How secure? You may be willing to do anything to reach that place. What place? An alcoholic doesn't know what that place is much less understand why they are reaching for the feeling. As humans, we all struggle to find happiness or joy. The question is what are you searching for? Happiness is a dead end. One the other hand, Joy represents security within God and you no longer have to fight the demons that chase you every day. The fight is staying in touch with your higher power. Very hard to do.....Love, Thomas
